

Vein Health is Women's Health

 Center for Vein Restoration

Leg pain and swelling caused by poorly functioning veins is common in women and exacerbated by pregnancy. If your patients are suffering from leg swelling, varicose veins, chronic pelvic pain, fullness, or pain related to intercourse, CVR may be able to help. Early intervention can provide improved results long term.

50% of women over the age of 50 suffer from CVI

WHAT TO LOOK FOR

Pelvic Pain

Pelvic pain, fullness, urinary frequency, painful vaginal intercourse and pain after intercourse can be signs of more serious vein issues

Edema/Leg Swelling/Lymphedema

Fluid retention in the calf, foot or ankle, visibly distending the skin

Varicose Veins

Bulging, rope-like veins visible on the lower leg or foot

Hyperpigmentation/Skin Changes

Reddish/brown discoloration in the lower leg caused by hemosiderin deposition

40% of pregnant women experience problems with varicose veins of the legs and/or vulva during their pregnancy.

Pelvic Congestion Syndrome and Chronic Pelvic Insufficiency often go undiagnosed.

Iliac vein obstruction, or May Thurner Syndrome, can lead to DVT, unilateral edema, leg pain or pelvic pain
